Each week I grade the homework due on Tuesday. That usually occurs on Wednesday. If the submission has not been made by then it will not be graded.

A filter is set for homework being graded. Only submissions for the particular assignment due are made visible by the filter. All others are excluded.

If the assignment is late, it will not be considered at all until the end of the semester. Any late assignment has to be submitted within one week of the due date (see syllabus).

When computing grades, if yours is borderline, homework submissions will be reviewed for being ungraded and eligibility for half credit.
